
Wedding Priorities

Purpose: Write out your priorities and work through compromises together as soon-to-be husband and wife as you determine what will be most important to you on your wedding day.

Directions:

1. Each person gets their own page to write out without influence of the other person: Groom Choices, Bride Choices, and Couple Agreed Choices
2. Write the things that are important to you in order of importance. Wedding planning is a team sport, and both of your preferences should be taken into consideration.
3. This will help you decide your budget and financial priorities for where you're going to put your money. This will guide what things you are ok with going "over budget" on to make sure you're happy, and also what things you're ok to "cheap" out on or skipping entirely to meet your budget, because priorities drive your budget.
4. Both the Groom and the Bride need to list their top 3 and bottom 3 priorities, then combine them together as a couple what you can both agree are the top 5 and bottom 5. You may overlap or you may be complete opposites, so talk it out early in the wedding planning process!
5. Use the Ideas list to brainstorm things that might matter to you.
